Reading Practice and Response

It is important to give your students plenty of practice reading, hearing and using these new word family words. The following is a story using the -ake family words found in this word family. Students can practice reading the sentences, identifying the -ake family words within the passage and then responding to the passage in a different way. You choose which response is most appropriate for your students based on their level of readiness. You may expect to have students do these activities independently if they are able or use the stories in your small group instruction and read it together for students who need more support.
