The square ball cards can be used to play three different games:
Bump, Set, Spike: In this game, place the square cards in a bucket, basket or something similar. Behind one of the cards is a picture of a volleyball player. The other students have their backs to the picture while the other students have their backs to the picture while they believe the net is hiding behind. They turn around and if the net is behind the card, then the child who got the net gets a turn and so on until the net card is found.

Block It! In this game you can use one or more sets of the square volleyball cards. Place all the cards in a bucket, basket or something similar. Behind one of the cards is a picture of a volleyball player. The other students have their backs to the picture while they believe the net is hiding behind. They turn around and if the net is behind the card, then the child who got the net gets a turn and so on until the net card is found.

Volleyball Words Memory: Played like traditional memory, you will need two cards. Students take turns turning over two cards, saying the words and the student with the most matches wins.
